

OUTBURSTS OF EVERETT TRUE

DULL THUDS

The bitterest taunt one politician can think of to hurl at another politician is, the accusation that he is "playing politics."

Time after all does the right thing by you. Stick around long enough and you can always get a chance to see the iron jawed, steely-eyed money king who bullied you in his office sniffing like a baby sea-calf in the witness chair.

Well, the age of superstition is past, thank heaven. That is why fortune tellers are making such a mint of money.

People who think Australian bushmen are clever boomerang throwers ought to listen once to the breakfast table repartee of any ordinary married couple.

The difference between an Optimist and a Pessimist is that the Optimist gets interviewed and the Pessimist can't even break in to buttonhole you.
